it is possible to make front view for change report :

- 1)Who has done the changes in report
- 2) when changes done in report

but to for point what changes been done need to discuss with sandeep sir, since changes contains complete report information.

please provide what details needed for the list view (if additional excluding above).

When an employee makes changes into the report, at that time

1. we will store previous values in one array and after save values in another array

2. Check previous values are same as saved values
  3. if same skip entry to tbl_report_changes
  4. if not same ( there is change in some field values) then an entry is added to the tbl_report_changes with only fields whose values changed (both values previous value as well as new changed value)
- Previous and modified value fields contain : field1Name:value|field2Name:value....

New change requirements:

- 1)New table tbl_report_changes to store the change values, employee id and modified date containing following fields:

id	report id	previous_values	modified_values	modified by	modified date
----	-----------	-----------------	-----------------	-------------	---------------

- 2) for above table previous_values and modified_values fields require length/values should be defined large since it contain fields and their values.

suggest any other information is needed or changes are required in above, please confirm.

Hi,

Background logic Changes:

Controller:admin/reports

Function:edit()

- 1) Added call to new function check_report_changes() at the time of edit save operation

- 2) implemented check_report_changes()

Please reply where the list of report changes will be displayed.

- 1) create another sub menu in reports menu

or

- 2) List page of report creation ( problem we can face all changes can't be displayed because of list page space )

or suggest any other. Please reply.

As discussed with Deepika mam,

following points found for the requirement:

- 1) create report change new module which will provide complete application changes information which includes:

- a) What changes done
- b) Where changes done
- c) Who made the changes

With this discussed with Manas sir, the above requirement will be a big change for application and can require big time to complete, since

- 1)it is not related to specific or some few limited modules.
- 2)Storing different changes for different modules will require modulewise tables
- 3)and surely increase the space on the server
- 4)can slow down system due to change operation data storage into the database

For this requirement I request Ganesh sir to discuss with Kailash sir

If you requirement is only for limit modules then provide module name with their location.

Hi,

Please share your suggestion and let us know the modules which will require these changes and according to that development timeline will be decided.

Hi,

We already had a discussion on this, change report is not about any particular module or report.

Its about the all changes, development done in RES.
